Business for Nature is glad to invite you to this multi-stakeholders event, bringing business representatives, governments and civil society in a conversation on the joint role of business and government in addressing the integrated challenge of nature loss, climate change and achieving sustainable development.

In an interactive and dynamic setting, governments and businesses representatives will debate the actions needed in 2020 to secure ambitious agreements to reverse the loss of nature by 2030 and on the policies required to help scale up business action and transform the current economic and financial systems.
